Executive Committee / MHSA Updates	Executive Committee Updates            Sharon Jennings, SC Co-Chair, requested those present to submit post-meeting evaluations and also shared the update below: MHSA SC Membership Changes            Shaunda Cruz, representing Probation, had her last Steering Committee meeting on February 17. We would like to thank her for her service on this committee. Lynsey Semon, who was Shaunda’s alternate, will now represent Probation as the primary member. Derek Casebeer will be her alternate. Welcome Lynsey and Derek. MHSA Updates            Dr. Ryan Quist, Behavioral Health Director, provided the following updates: COVID-19 Update            Sacramento County Public Health will be updating data every Wednesday. Our seven-day average for COVID-19 cases is down to 80. Our seven-day average is lower than it was before Omicron and really close to the level as it was before Delta. As a reminder, the public health order lifted requirements for indoor masking. However, indoor masking is still recommended based on the environments you are in. If you are within six feet of people, you might want to still consider wearing masks indoors. Our vaccination rates are doing great. We have 70% of the population partially vaccination and 65% of the population with full vaccinations, so keep up the great work promoting vaccinations within our community. World Events            I want to take a moment to acknowledge what is going on in the world. There are some stressful events happening in Eastern Europe and I want to recognize these events are having an impact on members of our community. We have a large number of Ukrainian neighbors here within our community and this is a difficult time right now. We want to extend our support and please reach out if there is any way we can support this community at this time. Cultural Observances            March is Women’s History Month. The 2022 theme is women providing healing, promoting hope. This theme is contributing to work of caregivers and front line workers during the pandemic, and recognition of the thousands of ways women of all cultures have provided healing and hope throughout history.

Member Questions and Discussion

[SC members praised the presentation as well as the presenters for the work they do]

I heard you say the police are called as last resort when it comes to suicidal and homicidal calls. This reminds me of Lil Wayne, the rapper, who previously shared his suicide story. When he was a child, he shot himself and all the police except one treated him like a criminal. The one police officer saw him struggling and took him directly to the hospital.

My questions are what police station would be called as last resort and how are you equipped to deal with suicidal and homicidal calls especially when dealing with racial biases? We often do not hear of African American youth dealing with suicidal issues and instead they are treated as criminals. How would you know for sure or be certain that the police are able to deal with this appropriately?

That is one of the concerns, and why some of the clientele have decided not to engage the police. One of the programs we have in Sacramento County is the Mobile Crisis Support Teams (MCST) specifically trained in mental health services and they are our emergency response team. MCSTs are taught a lot about mental health services, they have a clinician that rides with the police officer, and the goal is for these teams to respond to situations like those that you were mentioning.

There are some trainings with police departments here in Sacramento County to provide knowledge around mental health services and we hope that is who responds to our clients. Unfortunately, sometimes they are not able to respond and it does not go the way we hope. We are lucky to have services that are connected to police departments that understand there are mental health needs. Sometimes we have to find ways that do not include law enforcement because families will tell us they will not use them. We need to become inventive with safety planning and where we can take youth when having concerns that do not include police officers. Additionally, voice and choice are prominent in FIT programs so the advocates can also be there when law enforcement or navigators are called so we are able to give extra support to the family on the spot right then and there.

Are you able to record videos or posts, to share with different venues such as schools to get the word out? This presentation was 20 minutes could be cut down to bite-size sections.

That is a great idea rather than just the brochures. and individual trainings which usually have to be in person. We will look into this. Thanks for the suggestion.

I would like to thank the group for your presentation. The FIT services help many of our kids in child welfare and have made a

	lot of difference for both the children and their families so Sheri and team thank you so much for all you do. Public Comment Dr. Diane Wolfe: Have you considered finding a way to provide childcare for sick children so parents can go to work when a child is considered too ill to go to school, but not dangerously ill?  There are many rules and regulations around childcare and we do not have a current way to meet those requirements so unfortunately childcare is not something we can provide at this time. Are children with SED eligible for Medi-Cal services even if the family has private insurance so often there are not providers or flexibility services available through private insurance?  Our clientele for FIT program must have Medi-Cal in order to qualify. If they have private insurance they are not eligible for Medi-Cal, unfortunately. That is an area we are advocating for, that we would like private insurance companies to cover the type of services we are able to provide in the public mental health system. Are homeless TAY under the age of 21 eligible for FIT?  Yes, all youth under the age of 21 who meet eligibility requirements around having a mental health condition with Medi-Cal can receive services in our FIT program. Lillian Glamben, ONTRACK Program Resources: Great presentation and program. Where do I get information on the FIT program that I can share with my colleagues?  Here is our Child and Family Mental Health brochure:  https://dhs.saccounty.gov/BHS/Documents/Provider-Forms/Brochures/BR-Child-and-Family-Integrated-System-of-Care.pdf Randy Hicks, Disability Advisory Commission of Sacramento County: I understand that you guys work with people mental health disabilities, for those that have physical disabilities what are the reasonable accommodations that you provide? Additionally, some of the programs in the county do not do ASL interpretation and we wanted to see if you guys have contracts for people who need ASL or people that need materials in other format?  We have a good neighbor policy in Sacramento County and part of that policy requires buildings to be accessible and dignified, as well as clean and accessible to public transportation, and sited in a geography where there is need. We do not want our locations to be off in the middle of nowhere where nobody needs services

	so we pay a lot of attention to that and monitor all programs on monthly basis. FIT providers do have access to interpreter services and utilize ASL interpreters when needed to work with clients and their families.
